British View Withdrawal of British Troops From Gallipoli With Relief, Mixed With Regret

Abrupt War Office Statement Marks End of One of Great Chapters of War's History—British Forces From First to Last Were Within Few Miles of Victory—Will Continue to Occupy Tip of Peninsula Where New Gibraltar May Be Established.

(By Morning Bulletin Leased Wire)
LONDON, Dec. 20.—The announcement of the British withdrawal from Gallipoli overshadowed all other war news tonight. For the British public the abrupt official statement marks the end of one of the great chapters in the war's history.
The statement appears on Page 5 of this edition.
The shock of the official statement is broken by the fact that rumors had been current in the streets for some days, and the withdrawal of the forces had been a matter of widespread "pro and con" discussion ever since Lord Kitchener's famous speech in parliament, in which he declared that withdrawal had been recommended by a high military authority.

The feeling of the man in the street was generally one of relief, mixed with regret. A popular half penny paper sums up the British public's attitude as follows:
"Thus ends the enterprise on which the highest hopes were built and which, if it had succeeded, would probably have turned the tide of the war. Our troops from first to last were within a few miles of victory."

The policy underlying the Dardanelles expedition may yet be carried to a successful issue in some other quarter of the Near East, but the prospect of a Constantinople through the famous Straits is apparently relinquished.
British troops continue to occupy the tip of the peninsula at Sudd-El-Bahr, commanding the entrance to the straits, where, many British authorities have declared, a new Gibraltar may be established. The position here is well protected, and it is assumed that this will be held.

Operations in other sectors of the front, on the Gallipoli peninsula, thus drawn from which troops were withdrawn, are to be continued, it is intimated in the official statement, until a final decision is reached. Withdrawal was effected without knowledge of the movement on the part of the Turks, it is declared.
Further details of the evacuation of the Anzac and other camps have been received, says the official statement.
Without the Turks being aware of the evacuation, the British forces were withdrawn from one of the areas occupied by the Gallipoli peninsula, although in the course of contact with the enemy. The evacuation was effected from the operations at other points of the front.

LONDON, Dec. 20.—"We want the government to strengthen the war council," said John L. Garvin, editor of the "Daily Mail," in an article published today. Garvin believes that the current war council is not strong enough to handle the complexities of the war.

Helped Carry Out Body

A fellow officer, Despard, came to the aid of the victim, who was killed by a German machine gunner. Despard was wounded in the process, but he managed to get the victim to safety.

The Moore Law City Council has decided to hold a public meeting to discuss the war situation. The meeting will be held on December 25th, at 8 o'clock in the evening.

TURKS TO PLACE THEIR FINGERS INTO GREEK PIE

Germany Has Another Card Up Her Sleeve in Balkan Situation.

TEUTONIC FORCES ALMOST READY

Allies Are Rapidly Converting New Front Into Impregnable Position.

Paris, Dec. 20.—A dispatch to the Times from Athens says: "The Central Powers, it is said, are Bulgarian troops would not participate in the event of any action, and the entire alliance on Greek territory, but that there is a question of an attack by the Austro-Germans with the aid of the Turks. The participation of the Turks in any operation on Greek soil would be strongly objected to by the government, notwithstanding an assurance that the territory occupied would be evacuated after the war."

Dr. H. H. The Turkish minister, conferred at length with Premier Sarrailh yesterday.

Greece may object.

Paris, Dec. 20.—The Saloniki correspondent of the Petit Parisien, in a dispatch has been completed in the Serbian theatre, says.

The Germans have been again to concentrate forces, apparently with a view to an offensive. The Bulgarian army is seriously weakened by the evacuation of the Balkans to Turkish forces. Turkey has been informed and has agreed in principle to give an undertaking to Greece to evacuate Greece after the war, but the latter is not yet ready to accept it, and it remains to be seen whether the latter will permit the Turks to enter her territory after refusing to leave the Balkans.

Germany Hauls Bulgarian.

Paris, Dec. 20.—It is reported that the German answer to the Greek proposal of a convention of the Balkan states at Saloniki, says the Athens correspondent of the Figaro, "is that, in the event of a convention, the Bulgarian army is seriously weakened by the evacuation of the Balkans to Turkish forces. Turkey has been informed and has agreed in principle to give an undertaking to Greece to evacuate Greece after the war, but the latter is not yet ready to accept it, and it remains to be seen whether the latter will permit the Turks to enter her territory after refusing to leave the Balkans."

Pitiful Distress Among Poor of Berlin, Revolt Is Feared

Shops Are Plundered During Riots—Daily Allowance of Butter Per Family Is Said to Be Only a Quarter of a Pound

—Miser is Increasing.

London, Dec. 20.—Telegraphing from Amsterdam, the correspondent of Reuters says:

Life in the poorer quarters of the German capital is described as pitiful. The German-hungry wife of an English laborer, residing in Berlin, who after sixteen months' internment has arrived at Plushow, Holland, on her way to England according to the correspondent of the Amsterdam "Telegraph."

The German authorities, the correspondent says, are in great fear of a revolt, owing to the extreme distress of the people. Several riots occurred in which shops were plundered. Mobs composed mainly of women. Money among the working class is considerably scarce, and is increasing daily.

The woman's story, is somewhat confirmed, says the correspondent, by a letter from the Berlin correspondent of the Handelsblatt, who declares that shops literally were stormed by large crowds who were after their daily allowance of butter, consisting of only about a quarter of a pound per family. Provision shops were guarded by the police to prevent disturbances.

FIREMEN FIGHT CANAL OF BLAZING WHISKY

Glasgow, Dec. 20.—Firemen had to fight a canal full of blazing whisky here last night when a fire broke out in the building of the Distillery Co. Ltd.
